U.S.-Afghanistan Strategic Partnership Discussions

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton and Afghan President Hamid Karzai
Ben Franklin Room, Washington, DC
May 11, 2010

Secretary Clinton words: "I'd like to speak just briefly about our key priorities -- security, development, governance, and reintegration and reconciliation. Each is integral to achieving and sustaining stability and progress. Improving security is the essential first step. Today, courageous Afghan soldiers are fighting side by side with the brave men and women of the United States and more than 40 other countries. This partnership will help Afghans build capacity so they can assume lead responsibility for security over time as conditions permit. And we will continue to equip, train, and support the Afghan national security forces after our combat role winds down."

U.S.-Pakistan Security Assistance Working Group

U.S. Department of State
May 11, 2010

In Pakistan, U.S. security assistance programs overseen by the Bureau of Political-Military Affairs aim to improve Pakistan's counterinsurgency and counterterrorism operational capacities, enhance U.S.-Pakistan interoperability, and help to deepen our bilateral relations. Our robust military-to-military relationship with Pakistan also underscores our long-term commitment to remain engaged in the region, as well as our commitment to regional stability.
